Abueva says bishops misinformed on Cha-cha

By Davidoff Siguera

THE BISHOPS' CONFERENCE OF THE PHILIPPINES (BCP) has been accused of misinforming the public on the proposed constitutional amendment (Cha-cha) on the basis of a letter from the Department of Education (DepEd) to the BCP.

Abueva said the BCP's position on the Cha-cha is based on a letter from the DepEd to the BCP, which he said is "misleading and incomplete." He said the letter only mentions the Cha-cha's impact on the education system, but does not mention its impact on the economy and the environment.

Iraq utilities worse off now than before US occupation

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq's electricity and water utilities are in a state of collapse, with power outages lasting for days and water supply severely curtailed, according to a report from the United Nations. The report, released last week, says that the situation is worse than it was before the US occupation of Iraq in 2003. It attributes the decline to a combination of factors, including the destruction of infrastructure during the conflict, the lack of investment in the sector, and the mismanagement of the utilities by the current government. The report also notes that the situation is particularly dire in the southern part of the country, where the majority of the population relies on electricity and water for their daily lives.

Coalition striking significantly

By [Name], Staff Writer
 BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — A coalition of Sunni and Shia groups is making significant gains in the fight against the Islamic State (IS) in Iraq. The coalition, which includes the Iraqi government and various tribal and religious groups, has launched a series of offensives in the past few months, targeting IS strongholds in the north and west of the country. The latest report from the coalition says that they have captured several key towns and villages, and are now moving towards the city of Mosul. The report also notes that the coalition has received significant support from the United States and other coalition partners, including air strikes and the provision of weapons and training.

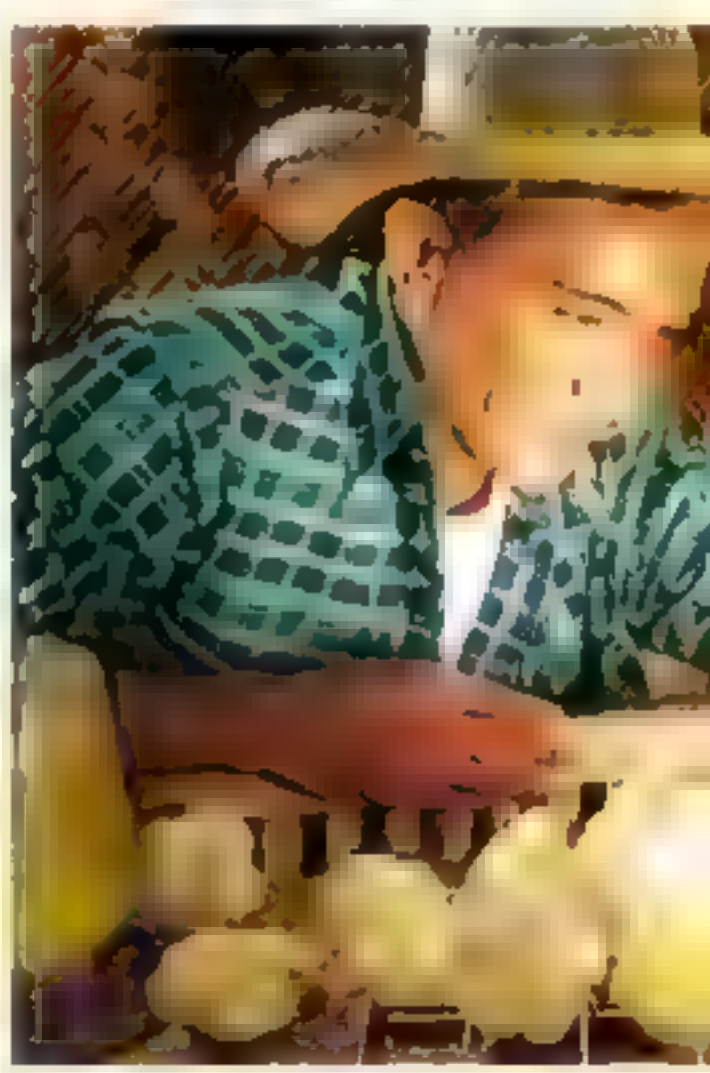

Breakthrough

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — A major breakthrough has been achieved in the fight against the Islamic State (IS) in Iraq, as coalition forces have captured a key stronghold in the north. The breakthrough came after a series of intense battles, during which coalition forces, including the Iraqi government and various tribal and religious groups, managed to surround and capture the town of [Name]. The town was a major IS base, and its capture is seen as a significant blow to the group's operations in the region. The coalition forces are now moving to consolidate their gains and prepare for the next phase of the offensive.

'I signed up for nothing'

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — A man who claimed to have been recruited by the Islamic State (IS) in Iraq has said that he signed up for nothing. The man, who is now a prisoner of the Iraqi government, told a court that he had been approached by IS recruiters who promised him a large sum of money and a chance to fight for the group. He said that he had agreed to their terms, but that he had never received any money or training, and that he had been left to fend for himself. The man's story has sparked a debate about the recruitment tactics used by IS, and the role of individuals like him in the group's operations.

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The Iraqi government has announced that it has captured a large number of weapons and explosives from the Islamic State (IS) in Iraq. The weapons, which include rifles, handguns, and explosives, were found in a cache in the north of the country. The government says that the weapons were part of a large shipment of arms that had been sent to IS by a foreign group. The capture of the weapons is seen as a significant victory for the government, and a blow to IS's military capabilities.

Aetas oppose entry of Korean resort

The Aetas, an indigenous group in the Philippines, have expressed their opposition to the entry of a Korean resort. They are concerned about the potential impact on their traditional way of life and the environment.

The resort, located in a remote area, is expected to attract a large number of tourists. However, the Aetas fear that the influx of visitors will lead to the destruction of their ancestral lands and the loss of their cultural heritage.

They have organized protests and rallies to voice their concerns. The Aetas are demanding that the government take steps to protect their rights and the environment.

The Aetas are a small, indigenous group in the Philippines. They have a rich cultural heritage and a deep connection to their ancestral lands. However, they are facing significant challenges due to the influx of tourists and the development of resorts.

Wizards avert sweep

By James B. Speer

MANILA, Philippines — The Wizards of the East, the Philippine national basketball team, averted a sweep by the United States team in the first round of the 1999 FIBA World Cup in Manila.

Wizards' coach, Jerry Slaughter, said, "We are proud to have won our first game in the Philippines. It was a great victory for the team."

Washington, D.C. (AP) — The Washington Wizards have averted a title sweep by defeating the New York Knicks 101-95 in Game 2 of the Eastern Conference semifinals. The Wizards, led by Vince Carter, took a 2-0 lead in the series.

The Knicks, who had won Game 1, were out of sync from the start. They trailed 10-0 in the first quarter and never led. The Wizards' defense was particularly effective in the second quarter, holding the Knicks to a season-low 18 points.

Carter, who has been in excellent form, scored 25 points, including a clutch layup with 1:15 left in the game. He also had 10 rebounds and 4 assists. The Wizards' defense was led by Reggie Miller, who had 12 points and 8 rebounds.

The Wizards will host Game 3 on Friday night. The Knicks will have a chance to win the series in Game 4 on Sunday.

And not so rapid response

Washington, D.C. (AP) — The Washington Wizards' defense was not as quick as it was in Game 1. The Knicks were able to get some easy baskets in the second quarter, but the Wizards' defense was able to stop them in the third and fourth quarters.

The Wizards' offense was also not as quick as it was in Game 1. They took a long time to get into a rhythm in the second quarter, but they were able to take control of the game in the third quarter.

The Wizards' defense was led by Reggie Miller, who had 12 points and 8 rebounds. The Knicks' offense was led by Patrick Ewing, who had 15 points and 10 rebounds.
